The Reunion Committee had fun preparing for this evening. Each meeting, over the past year, was a mini reunion. We did get down to the business of planning but there was also lots of “remember when” time. Tonight, the Class of 1970 takes a break from the present to walk the halls of Upper Darby High School, a place we called home forty-plus years ago. Home is defined as where you live at a particular time; a place where something began or flourished; a social unit living together.

Life’s experiences have changed us in so many ways but we have a common thread that makes this evening special. Whether you scored a goal or beat a drum on the football field; raised your voice in song at a holiday concert; rebuilt a V-8 engine at Vo-tech or debated for the HiQ team; the school day started in your homeroom.

We are a family, dare we say a family of “Royal” capacity. Tonight we come together again, traveling the distance, for this “family reunion.” Reacquaint with old buddies. Get to know those you didn’t hang around with. (We were a big class and no one knew everyone, so no pressure!) Have fun and laugh. Get up and dance. Share memories and old stories. Take a moment to remember those who are no longer with us and at the end of this memorable evening promise to meet again... in another five years!

Upper Darby High School
Where Everyone is Royalty!

November 2010

Dear Class of 1970:

It is my pleasure to welcome you to your class reunion. Thank you for your continued support of the Upper Darby High School. It is dedicated alumni like you that allow us to annually celebrate our storied tradition and legacy of excellence.

Upper Darby High School has changed quite a bit since you graduated. We are now in our 116th year of dedicated service to the communities of Upper Darby, Drexel Hill, Clifton Heights, Millbourne, and East Lansdowne. We currently have almost 3800 students under the guidance of six administrators and 270 professional staff members. We have grown into a very diverse community of learners with students hailing from 70 native countries speaking 75 different native languages. The building itself is dramatically different than when you left. We have undergone four major renovation and addition projects since 1970. In 1972, the building reopened with new administrative offices, classrooms, and our now renowned Performing Arts Center, which is where the old high school main building once stood. The addition of our Arts and Technical wing in the 1980s expanded and diversified our curriculum to the most comprehensive program found anywhere. Our latest additions of the new D wing, auxiliary gym, and weight room in 2000 brought our capacity to over 175 instructional spaces in the building. What hasn't changed is our commitment to our students, our standard of excellence, and our dedication to remaining an innovative leader in education.

I invite anyone who would like to visit the high school to please come see us. You set the standard for our school motto:

Upper Darby High School...Where Everyone is Royalty!

Sincerely,

Christopher Dormer
Principal

The Upper Darby High School Jazz Band

is a top level group for advanced players.

All members are chosen from either Concert Band, Wind Ensemble or Orchestra, with the exception of piano, bass or guitar players.

The Jazz Ensemble consists of saxophones, trombones, trumpets, piano, bass, guitar and percussion instruments and performs at Spring Jazz Festivals, community events and concerts.

Musical selections include Swing, Jazz and Rock.

Membership into the Jazz Band is determined by instrumentation needs and audition, and is rostered for half of the school year.

The first school in Upper Darby was a building erected in 1779 and sold to John Sellers, Benjamin Brannon and Oliver Garrett. This was on the site of the present high school. The second building built here was the “Eastern School,” erected in 1872.

The Upper Darby School District has the distinction of being the oldest public school district in Pennsylvania, because it was the first district to accept the Free School Act in 1834.

THE UPPER DARBY HIGH SCHOOL 1896

Upper Darby High School

first opened its doors to students in 1894.

A two-story red brick building, it was run by Miss Elizabeth D. Turner, teacher and principal. It was truly the “Little Red School House.”

In 1896 the first class of five graduated. The classes grew necessitating the new stone building that opened in 1919. It included a gymnasium with showers and locker rooms, considered the finest in the country at that time; a two-room library and an art room with overhead lighting. The teaching staff, now at seventeen, taught four curricula: Academic, Scientific, Commercial and General. The new school housed grades 7– 12 until 1930, when Upper Darby Junior High (now Beverly Hills Middle School) was opened to grades 7 – 9.

A new wing was added in 1952, including a new gymnasium, a cafeteria and twenty-nine additional classrooms.

By the late 1960's the fifty year old building that we remember was no longer adequate.

1970 was the year that construction began on a new, larger facility. The old stone building was demolished and the new building was opened in 1972. Enrollment peaked at 3200 students but then declined. In September 1981, the ninth grade joined the high school population.

Do You Insure Your Investments?

- One-stop financial shopping to all of our valued clients
- More than 40 years financial consulting experience
- Comprehensive financial planning services

Areas of Focus: Estate Planning, Retirement Planning, Insurance, Income Tax, Charitable Giving and Real Estate

Norman Watts has more than 40 years of professional experience in financial consulting in helping "insure" his clients' investments. He has one-on-one contact with his clients to insure that the client has his full attention for the best possible plan for the client's needs whether it is just investments or everything down to a tax and estate plan.

As an OSJ of his broker/dealer ICC, he oversees other representatives who include, but are not limited to, attorneys in estate planning. This enables an all-around approach by providing all aspects of the financial consulting business to help enable his clients to achieve their long-term financial goals.
